Superintendent/President

A message from

*Welcome to San Joaquin
Delta Community College
District's 85th annual Commencement ceremony.*

Our Board of Trustees, administrators, faculty, staff, family, and friends gather today to celebrate and acknowledge the academic achievements of the Class of 2020. We also thank family, significant others, and friends who have supported our graduates.

The degrees conferred today signify that our graduates have the character, courage, and perseverance to achieve a challenging personal goal. Many are the first in their families to attain this level of education; they will serve as inspiration for others in their families and among their friends. Others will join family members in carrying on the tradition of higher education. We hope that all of our graduates will remember Delta College as the place that stirred their desire for lifelong learning.

Graduates, this is the beginning of the rest of your lives. I ask you to never stop learning and never stop following your dreams! I hope to someday see you with bachelor degrees, master degrees, and doctorates. If you can graduate today in the face of all the pandemic challenges, you can do anything!

Once again, congratulations! We are very proud of you and we hope you join Delta's Alumni Association and keep us up to date with all the great things that you will continue to do in life.

Se'Quoia Drew
Student Speaker
Class of 2020

The COVID-19 pandemic flipped college students' lives upside down this spring. And Se'Quoia Drew is the first to admit that at first, it was hard to feel excited about a virtual Commencement ceremony.

But consider what she has to celebrate.

Originally from the Bay Area, Drew became the first member of her family to graduate from high school in 2009. While most of her friends headed off to college, she stayed home to work two jobs and help her mother raise her two younger brothers, who are on the autism spectrum.

If that wasn't enough, Drew suffered a work-related injury that resulted in major knee surgery. Struggling to walk, she gained weight and became depressed. A college education seemed out of reach.

"Long story short, I got out of bed," she said. "I joined the gym. I lost 150 pounds. I decided it was time for me to further my education here at Delta."

Drew decided to earn a degree in sociology. She credits Delta with giving her the resources she needed to succeed, including a work-study job in the financial aid office.

"We may fall a thousand times," she tells graduates in her Commencement speech. "So what? Pick yourselves back up, be confident, and chase those dreams and goals of yours."

"We may fall a thousand times. So what? Pick yourselves back up, be confident, and chase those dreams and goals of yours."

Samuel Maloy
Alumni Speaker
Class of 2004, 2006, & 2009

Samuel Maloy never thought he'd be a teacher. He never thought he'd work in a hospital.

Somehow, he ended up doing both. And he wouldn't have it any other way.

Maloy is not only a graduate of Delta College's nursing program, but he now teaches there as an associate professor. In the midst of the COVID-19 pandemic, he is helping train the next generation of nurses.

And by the way, he remains on the front lines of the pandemic as he still works as an emergency room nurse.

Getting to this point in life wasn't easy. Maloy was initially rejected from several nursing schools. Eventually he found a home at Delta, but the challenging program was made even more difficult by the fact that he had to work multiple jobs on the side, making French fries at In-N-Out and sweeping the floors at a hair salon. Sleep-deprived, Maloy failed some college courses and had to repeat them.

"I felt like a failure," he said. "I felt like I would never become a nurse."

But he never quit. Nor did his closest supporters. During difficult times, whether you are struggling to get through school or enduring a crisis like COVID-19, Maloy says the key is to press on and remember those things you can control: your decisions.

"You have to continue on, and you have to decide how to act when the unexpected occurs."

"You have to continue on, and you have to decide how to act when the unexpected occurs," Maloy tells graduates in his speech. "So I encourage you to decide to be willing to grow and pursue the change, face obstacles with a positive attitude... Decide not to give up."

ALPHA GAMMA SIGMA

ALPHA GAMMA SIGMA is the statewide Community College Honor Society. Graduating members of Alpha Gamma Sigma can be identified by the “gold stole” worn around their necks during the commencement ceremony. The purpose of Alpha Gamma Sigma is to foster, promote, maintain and organize scholarships; to develop programs offering cultural, social or enrichment experiences as part of the total experience of the college and community; and to emphasize the development of leadership, character, and judgment. Students attaining membership in Alpha Gamma Sigma must maintain a 3.0 Grade Point Average (GPA), and must commit fifteen hours to a variety of college and community activities.

CAPS AND GOWNS

THE TRADITION of wearing caps and gowns at major academic events goes back to the monasteries of the Middle Ages, which were learning as well as worship centers. The clothing had a simple purpose; warmth, in what otherwise were cold and drafty stone buildings. In later centuries, as universities took over the educational role, the gowns became brighter and were often associated with a specific institution.

In 1895, a standardized dress code was established so that graduates of certain colleges and universities would wear the basic ceremonial clothing associated with each institution. The color of the tassel on the cap depicts the area of study, and graduates wear the tassel on the left side of the cap. The silk lining of the hood bears the color, or colors, of the institution from which the student graduated. The color of the velvet band around the hood indicates the discipline in which the wearer has earned his or her degree.

VIRTUAL COMMENCEMENT COMMITTEE

David Bayne Dr. Lisa Cooper Wilkins Tim Huynh Patricia Ochoa John Sterni Marie Williams
Alex Breitler Amy Courtright Claudia Navarro Christina Rivera Dr. Angela Tos

The Commencement Committee wishes to thank Dr. Omid Pourzanjani, the Board of Trustees, College Administrators, Deans, Division Deans, Faculty, the Alumni Speaker, and the Student Speaker for their participation in this event. The committee extends appreciation to all District personnel involved in making this year's virtual commencement ceremony a successful occasion for our students and their loved ones. In addition, the committee thanks the following Delta College employees for their special contributions:
